Career Summary

Cindy Salo, Ph.D., is a plant ecologist who writes from rural areas about science, natural resources, and agriculture for general and technical audiences. Her writing for general audiences has appeared in Hakai Magazine, Edible Idaho, and Intermountain Farm & Ranch. Cindy is currently exploring the role of army cutworms in periodic cheatgrass die-offs. In her 20 years as a researcher, she has investigated plant interactions in the Intermountain West, the Sonoran Desert, Senegal, and Mexico. Cindy conducted research at the University of Arizona and the U.S. Geological Survey. She currently owns Sage Ecosystem Science Corp., where she provides sound research and clear writing.

- Develops, researches, and writes publications and educational displays about science, natural resources, and agriculture for general and technical audiences.
- Conducts original ecological research.
- Translates research results and scientific terms into clear and compelling prose.
- Edits, formats, and prepares U.S. government reports and other documents for publication.
- Reviews scientific literature and compiles complete and concise summaries.

Professional Experience

Sage Ecosystem Science Corp. – Boise, ID Jan. 2007—Present

Scientist, Science Writer, and President

- Provides sound research and clear writing about science, ecology, natural resources, and agriculture for general and technical audiences.
- Clients include offices of the Great Plains Fire Science Exchange, City of Meridian Idaho, Sound Science LLC, The Nature Conservancy, and University of Idaho.

Sweetwater Center – Cascabel, AZ Jan. 2013—Present

Vice Chair and Webster for Nonprofit Organization

- Develops education and research projects that explore connections between conservation and agriculture on the middle San Pedro River in southeast Arizona.
- Develops ideas, writes text, obtains images, and maintains website.

Saguaro Juniper Conservation Ranch – Cascabel, AZ June 1992—Present

Partner & Social Media Wrangler

- Shares the responsibilities and joys of holding and caring for land and cattle in the middle San Pedro River of southeast Arizona.

- Works with community conservation groups and government agencies to produce grass-fed beef and care for irrigated lowland pasture and upland native rangeland.
- Maintains Facebook page for conservation ranch.

Division of Research and Economic Development

Mar. 2011—Aug. 2012

Boise State University – Boise, IDScience and Research Writing Intern

- Identified, developed, researched, and wrote stories about research findings at Boise State University for their research office website. Audience was the interested public.
- Took accompanying photos or located and secured permission to use others' photos.

Rangelands Magazine

Mar. 2011—July 2012

Society for Range Management – Wheat Ridge, COColumnist

- Identified, developed, researched, and wrote column for award-winning professional journal. Wrote about new technologies for monitoring vegetation and soils, land management issues, innovative farms and ranches, and research on sagebrush hybrids. Audience included ranchers, academics, land managers, and researchers.
- Took accompanying photos or located and secured permission to use others' photos.

Sound Science LLC – Boise, ID and New York, NY

May 2008—July 2011

Associate Scientist

- Wrote series of white papers on natural resource management issues for the U.S. Army Sustainable Range Program. These trained federal ecologists to manage U.S. Army training lands.
- As team member, developed online libraries and decision support tool to help U.S. Army ecologists monitoring effectively and make sound management decisions.
- Described biological thresholds for sustainable and realistic training conditions on U.S. Army training bases.

USGS Forest & Rangeland Ecosystem Science Center

Jan. 2003—Jan. 2007

Snake River Field Station – Boise, IDResearch Ecologist

- Established research program focused on restoration of sagebrush steppe. Initiated, designed, and carried out work in Idaho, Oregon, Nevada, and Wyoming.
- Identified biological thresholds for recovery of native vegetation after wildfire, determined effects of land treatments on habitat for Greater Sage-Grouse, and evaluated the use of land treatments to thin dense, single-aged stands of big sagebrush in order to increase understory species for wildlife.
- Analysed data, prepared reports, and presented results and management implications at agency, professional, and public meetings.

Institut des Sciences de l'Environnement Mar. 2002—Dec. 2002

Université Cheikh Anta Diop – Dakar, Senegal, West Africa

Research Ecologist

- On a Fulbright Fellowship, documented the spread of introduced Prosopis juliflora and native Acacia nilotica var. adansonia in the Saloum region of Senegal.
- Designed the study, located a research site, and carried out field research, in Wolof, the local language.

School of Renewable Natural Resources Aug. 1998—Mar. 2002

University of Arizona – Tucson, AZ

Graduate Research Associate

- Investigated the effects of soil nitrogen level manipulations on interactions among red brome (Bromus madritensis subsp. rubens), a Mediterranean annual grass, and native annual species in the Sonoran Desert.
- Traced the introduction and spread of red brome in western North America.

School of Renewable Natural Resources Jan. 1999—Dec. 2000

University of Arizona – Tucson, AZ

Graduate Teaching Associate

- Helped teach Rangeland Inventory and Monitoring and for Range and Forest Management course; both were graduate and upper division under graduate courses.
- Evaluated and coached data interpretation and technical writing skills.
- Prepared, presented, and coordinated lecture and laboratory session and field trips throughout Arizona.

School of Renewable Natural Resources Jan. 2000—May 2000

University of Arizona – Tucson, AZ

Jan. 1999—May 1999

Graduate Teaching Associate

- Helped teach Range and Forest Management course, a graduate and upper division under graduate course.
- Prepared, presented, and coordinated lecture and laboratory session and field trips throughout Arizona.

Soil, Water & Environmental Science Department Oct. 1992– Aug. 1997

University of Arizona – Tucson, AZ

Senior Research Specialist

- Developed guidelines and strategies for revegetating saline flue gas desulfurization (FGD) sludge disposal sites.
- Designed laboratory, greenhouse, and field studies, analyzed data, published results in peer-reviewed journals, and presented to funding agency and at professional meetings.
- Researched and wrote literature review and final project report, both published by Electric Power Research Institute (EPRI).

Education

Graduate Certificate in Technical Communications

Boise State University – Boise, ID

- 48-credit program
- Courses in writing, editing, and document production

Ph.D. in Renewable Natural Resources

University of Arizona – Tucson, AZ

- Emphasis in Plant Ecology
- Dissertation title: Ecology and biogeography of red brome \(*Bromus madritnesis* subsp. *rubens*\) in the Sonoran Desert

M.S. in Soil and Water Science

University of Arizona – Tucson, AZ

- Emphasis in Soil Microbiology
- Thesis title: Competition between strains of rhizobia for nodulation of *Leucaena leucocephala*

B.S. in Animal Science

University of Minnesota – St. Paul, MN

- Awarded with high distinction
- Additional work in Agronomy
